This is the first book published by Appleton-Century-Crofts that deals specifically with the biological and physical bases of psychology. Molecular biological developments have been rapid in recent years. These developments have influenced the thinking of numerous behavioral scientists. This volume contains papers by a distinguished group of authors which indicate the current research and ideas in an area which the editor calls molecular psychobiology that spans from molecular biological sciences to the behavioral disciplines. Paying particular attention to the nucleic acids DNA and RNA, as well as other macromolecules, this distinguished international group of researchers review and discuss in detail the experimental work of many scientists that have led to new hypotheses of learning and memory, (including abnormal behavior and mental disease). January, 1966. Approximately 200 pages, $8.00.

THE ROLE OF MEANINGFULNESS, SIMILARITY, AND FAMILIARIZATION

by Albert E. Goss and Calvin F. Nodine

Covers three related topics at an advanced level: techniques of assessing meaningfulness and related attributes of stimuli, relationships among those techniques, and results of a large number of such assessments; theoretical analyses of the role of meaningfulness, similarity, and familiarization of stimulus and response members in paired-associates learning; and experimental investigations of acquisition and other phenomena of paired-associates learning as a function of meaningfulness, similarity, and familiarization of stimulus and response members.

PRINCIPLES OF PSYCHOLOGY

James Deese, The Johns Hopkins University

For introductory courses in psychology. Contains an outstanding chapter on language and thought. Part I presents the basic principles of psychology strongly rooted in the main tradition of general and experimental psychology. Part II offers schematic characterization of the individual by means of psychological techniques. Part III is devoted to social psychology and materials on "applications of psychology."

List Price $7.95

PROGRAMED STUDENT GUIDE by Glen D. Jensen, DePaul University

List Price $3.25

EDUCATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY, SECOND EDITION

James M. Sawrey and Charles W. Telford, both of San Jose State College

Second edition features... Major emphasis on learning and motivation. A new chapter on the nature and scientific methods of educational psychology. A new section on the social psychology of education. Expanded treatment of measurement. New section on programed instruction, cognitive learning, and creativity.

List Price $7.95

PROGRAMED STUDENT GUIDE by Earl L. Jandron, San Jose State College.

List Price $3.75

FOUNDATIONS OF PSYCHOLOGICAL RESEARCH: STATISTICS, METHODOLOGY, AND MEASUREMENT

Kenneth H. Kurtz, State University of New York at Buffalo

An elementary presentation of the basic concepts of statistics, philosophy of science, and measurement theory as applied to research in the field of psychology. Aims to provide some of the technical background necessary for an understanding of contemporary psychological theory and research.

List Price $8.50

THE MENTALLY RETARDED CHILD: DEVELOPMENT, EDUCATION AND TREATMENT, SECOND EDITION

Max L. Hutt, Consultant, Michigan Dept. of Mental Health
Robert G. Gibby, Chief Psychologist, McGuire V.A. Hospital

Second edition of a significant and widely used text. Includes latest research studies on mental retardation in children. Retains the original positive philosophy that the mentally retarded child is a dynamic, developing individual who can improve his effectiveness and actualize his potential in society through education, training and guidance.

List Price $7.95

ORGANIZATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY

Bernard M. Bass, University of Pittsburgh

Designed for courses in departments of psychology, schools of business, all professional schools, and executive development programs. Deals with psychological principles and concepts aimed at understanding how the formal organization in which work occurs shapes the behavior of all involved in the system.

List Price $8.95

STATISTICAL METHODS: A PROBLEM-SOLVING APPROACH

Vivian Gourevitch, The City College of City University of New York

A comprehensive elementary presentation of statistical methods in the behavioral sciences. Oriented towards application of statistical techniques. Offers a wealth of worked-out examples and problems along with interpretations of the results.

List Price $7.75

SPRING, 1966

PATTERNS OF PSYCHOLOGICAL RESEARCH: A READER FOR GENERAL PSYCHOLOGY

Jerome E. Singer and Francis
L. Whaley, both of The Pennsylvania State University

A vital collection of readings. Illustrates the dynamics of psychological inquiry with the presentation of related papers on a single problem. Presents a problem in theoretical perspective—states the problem and follows with a series of articles, each resulting from the findings of the previous article.

Psychology is theory, just as science is theory—descriptive theory sometimes, an explanatory theory at other times, yet theory, because it is concerned with concepts that are things and their relations. Psychology and science are theory empirically based. You check constantly against phenomenal particulars but you are after the generalities that the particulars yield.

—E. G. BORING
